Memoranda of the campaign of
Jan. 1st 1862.

Last night we received orders to cook
a days rations and to be ready to move at an early hour this morning. Morning warm and fine, with the exception of high winds. We left camp for parts unknown about 9 o'clock.
Every thing concerning the object of our march was kept in perfect secresy among both officers and men. We took the pike leading to Romney. Found out that a very strong force was going with us.
We were almost suffocated by the dust which blew in clouds up the road. We kept the Romney road for 7 miles, when we filed to the right to king a road leading to Paddytown. We passed through the town a complete hot poor looking village just beyond which we camped near flat. The winds blew terrific all night and I went back to town to get our shoes mended. While gone I ran into Bert on the wildest ride and the maddest man I ever saw. He had lost his pack and 2 sleeping outfits. It turned out before they had a very unpleasant night's rest and the burros were nearly ready to start on our march so soon. Left camp by day light. We were detained about an hour on account of crossing creek. Today was disagreeable and the trail very rough. Ground was frozen and we were delayed frequently by steep hills we stopped over night to dry our clothes. The whole side of our mountain could be seen by the smoke of campfires.

Next morning we started to go after gathering up our wagons we were ordered to forward to where Gen Gordon had encamped about 6 miles. We left about 8 and were obstructed by the wagons until we were nearly frozen. When 8 o'clock we were ordered to forward and pass the wagons and go into camp. In passing the train we found it was nearly two miles long. Encountered so many wagons turning and upset the road was very bad and a great number of the Pawnees through fear being in the road. We finally formed camp and got to dancing. Elected Capt Abbott to select the ranges. Was very cold. We had no blankets. We built large rail fires

Time has slipped away like magic since last I wrote in this book. Nearly seven months gone with its burden of marches toils and battles. Five battles I have witnessed and in which I was actively engaged many miles I have Marched hit worn and weary but yet here I am sound and well enjoying life as best I can.

For the past three months we have had an easy time but the next six are to be dreaded. I hope I may always have such luck as I have had thus far, except "the lean streak I had at Ft. Delaware."

When you observe a kindness, remember it; when you better one forget it.

Patience is a noble virtue. The truest heroism in human life is that private heroism which bears with calmness inevitable ills, regardless of the misconstructions of a fruitless sympathy, and without the soothing consciousness of publication.

Let your will keep pace with your resolves, or your resolves will soon be broken.

citizen of the world, cosmopolite

Dark blue eyes are most common in persons of delicate, elegant or effeminate nations; light-blue, and dun and whitish grey eyes, in the hardy and bold active.

Greenish eyes are generally the accompanying as gray. Hazel eyes are the more natural indications of a mind active, ambitious, ingenious and profound. Shakspeare, it is said had hazel eyes. Milton, Lord Bacon, gray eyes.

Discord, Coe of harmony of the sounds
Delay. conviction. circulator.

He that thinks himself the happiest man really is so but he that thinks he is the wisest is generally the greatest fool.

The pleasantest things in the world are pleasant thoughts, and the greatest art in life is to have as many of them as possible.

The bread of life is love; the salt of life is work; the sweetness of life is poetry; the water of life is faith.

Little drops of rain bring in the meadows, little acts of kindness brighten the world.

Black eyed ladies are most apt to be passionate and jealous; Blue eyed soulful, truthful, affectionate & confiding. Grey eyed, philosophical, literary, resolute, cold-hearted. Hazel eyed quick tempered fickle.

Never be cast down by trifles. If a spider breaks his web twenty times, twenty times will he mend it. Make up your mind to do a thing & you will do it. Fear not if trouble come upon you; sit down and smile through the dog of a dark cloud.

Love

As gold is found but here & there upon earth, so it is with love in human life. We meet it a little in the hearts of children and in our households; but it is here & there a scale of gold and a whole continent of dirt.

Human life.

Hope writes the poetry of the boy, but memory that of the man. Man looks forward with smiles, but backward with sighs. Such is the wise providence of God. The cup of life is sweetest at the brim, the flavor is impaired as we drink deeper; and the dregs are made bitter that we may not struggle when it is taken from our lips.

Genius.

First—no dependence on genius. If you have great talents, industry will improve them; if you have but moderate abilities, industry will supply their deficiency. Nothing is denied to well directed labor; nothing worth having is to be obtained without it. — —

Live on the field of battle,
Be earnest in the fight;
Stand for the right with manly courage
And struggle for the right.

A Friend

Oh! the blessing it is to have a friend to whom one can speak fearlessly on any subject; with whom one's deepest as well as, one's most foolish thoughts come out simply & safely. Oh, the comfort - the inexpressible comfort of feeling safe with a person, having neither to weigh thoughts nor measure words, but pouring them all right out, just as they are, chaff & grain together, certain that a faithful hand will take & sift them; keep what is worth keeping, & then with the breath of kindness blow the rest away.

Topics for conversation

Whatever can interest only in a particular place is frivolous; whatever can interest only those who have pursued a particular course of study is pedantic. Those topics of conversation only which are capable of interesting well bred & well informed men are dignified and elegant. They are those on which men of all places & professions may converse with each other. Human nature & character in general events which affect the public; polite literature, which delights every moderately refined mind; the arts of the sciences, arts, & professions, as when expressed in

a.tlcdelivers.com:8080/?con

Popular language the world in general can understand;— these are the subjects of interesting conversation.

Wife.

The good old Saxon word (wife) is after all, the dearest & most sacred word in the whole vocabulary of love. Around it clusters all that is most beautiful, chaste, & paramount in the tender passion. Cupid whatever forbidden paths the heart of man may wander; still it must return, at last, to the hallowed name of wife for consolation & rest.

No man who loves the favor of the world can avoid feeling and submitting to the unspeakable pathos of silent nature. Living nature is cheering, animating, invigorating — inanimate nature, gentle, subduing, pathetic. You cannot watch the flying clouds, or the waves upon the beach, and feel not by joyous; you cannot eye the leap of a trout, or follow the flight of pigeons and be sad.

Many a time heart that would have come back like the dove to the ark after its first transgression, has been frightened beyond recall by the savage severity of an unforgiving spirit.

The triumph of woman lies, not in the admiration of her lover, but in the respect of her husband, and that can only be gained by a constant cultivation of those qualities which she knows he most values.

It will afford greater happiness in the hour of death to have wiped one tear from the cheek of sorrow, than to have ruled an empire.

The highest and most characteristic glory of all earthly beauty is to make us aspire to it; and woman is great in proportion to the ideal she suggests.

Wealth is not acquired, as many persons suppose, by fortunate speculations and splendid enterprises, but by the daily practice of industry, frugality, and economy. He who relies upon these one may rarely be found destitute, and he who never relies upon any other will generally become bankrupt.

The influence of woman, either for good or evil, on the heart and mind of man is omnipotent. Vain are the struggles to resist it. Our misfortunes it tempers; our energies; our prosperity adds grace to them.

Every man should mind his own business; if he can.

Casual words

A Casual word – more expanding breath – how light its import seems, how "big with fate" it often proves! Not alone words that are the voice of deep by thoughts, but words that are only the utterance of transient emotion, forgotten as soon as spoken words that are but rapidly spoken impulse must not away
with the air that bore them,
but – assume mysterious wings
for good or evil to influence and haunt the hearer's life!
These casual words are seed
scattered perchance by liberal,
perchance by thoughtless hands; though lightly, unpremeditatedly dropped, if they fall upon receptive minds

upon open, fertile soils, they strike vigorous roots – germinate in silence and darkness, and, before we know that they are planted,
bring forth grapes or thistles.
Blessed are they who scatter
on earth may be tracked by the good seed sown in passing words!
In the spring, a lover in its changes on the burnished dove;
In the spring a young man's fancy
Lightly turns to thoughts of love.
(Tune)
Hope, though often sorely deceived, serves at least –
to lead us through life
along an agreeable pathway.

Strong will pleasures lead disgust. You are not fitted to bear doing the burden of great joys.

Accustom yourself to some employment for every hour you can prudently snatch from business

The violet grows low and covers itself with its own leaves,
and of all flowers, yields
the sweetest fragrance. Such is humility.

In the time that men waste
in bewailing the perversions
of their fortune, they could gain a competency.

Liberty will not descend to a people; a people must raise themselves to liberty; it is a blessing to be earned before it is enjoyed.

Propose continually to yourself
new objects. It is only by constantly enriching your mind
that you can prevent its growing poor. Sloth benumbs and enervates it; regular work excites and strengthens it — and work is always within our power.

Conflicts of Life.

A triumph in the field of battle is a theme for poetry, for painting, for history, eulogistic and aggrandizing agencies, whose united tribute constitutes fame but these are victories won by men over themselves more truly honorable to the conqueror than any that can be achived in war. These silent successes we may never hear of. The battles in which they are obtained are fought in solitudes and without help save from above. The conflict is sometimes waged in the still watches of the night and the struggle is often fearful. Honor to every one who conquers in such a warfare. Honor to the manly woman who fights temptation, hatred, revenge, envy, selfishness, back to its last covert in the heart, and there expels it forever. Although no outward show of honor accrues to victors of these good fights, they have their reward, a brighter one than fame can bestow.

Dec. 30th Had a pleasant chit chat last night with Moe & Frechie about our future, our loves & scrapes in the past, and the girls we left behind us." We had many merry & jolly laughs as we recalled to mind some funny event that occurred in our wild but unforgotten past. Day fine, but windy. Were ordered to clean up our guns for inspection. Made mine so bright that it answered for a mirror. Had an election for 4th Corporal in the place of W.S. Chapman deceased. Jas McIntyre was elected over J.M. Powell & others. Had inspection about 9 am down. Finished my Testament in evening it being the second time I have read it during the year.

The citizens were awakened this morning between 2 & 3 o'clock A. M. by the startling cry of fire and the ringing of bells. That element so destructive when it mocks the powers of man and rages in its unconquerable fury was fast devastating this pleasant town. It commenced its work near the middle of the south East division of houses on the square and spread with rapidity on either side. Its northern course was stopped when it reached Main Street. It was checked in its southern course at the Drug store Consuming five business houses. and many groceries &c The damages have been estimated at $30,000.
